Dairymen Do Not Propose to Be Undersold by the Men to Whom They Wholesale Milk-Mr. Stone Explains the Objects in View When Consolidation Was Made-What a Large Dealer Says.

A story has been current of late that the combining of a number of Scrauton milk dealers into the now Scranton Dairy company was for the purpose of maintaining a higher price on milk and driving minor competitors from the field. An investigation has been made by THE TRIBUNE, and from the informaion received from officials of the Scranton Dairy company and individ-ual dealers of extensive business, it cannot be learned that the so-called combination will, or can, make firstitious prices; at least, such a state of affairs will not appear as long as the dealers now out of the amaigamation maintain their individual businesses.

A COMBINATION FORMED. The union of five of the large milk lealers of the city was consummated March 1, with stock to the amount of $32,000 held by several members in amounts proportionate to the extent of capital represented in their old busicapital represented in their old business and equipments. This union was made by the following: Farmer's Dairy company; E. S. Decker, Kress Farm dairy, Reynolda Bros, and the Farmers' Milk company, of Providence, A. J. Stone and G. M. Carpenter were formerly officers of the Farmers' Dairy company, and Dairy company, and are now leading officials of the bleaded concern. A TRIBUNE reporter visited Mr. Stone at his office on Linden street yesterday and questioned him concerning the sto ries affoat to the effect that the Scranton Dairy company would squeeze the "We have heard such reports," he "but I assure you our objects are perfectly proper and non-secret. Here-tofore, all the milk companies which now constitute the Scranton Dairy company and others who have not united with us, canvassed the same territory for our supply. COULD DO BUSINESS CHEAPER, "We found that we could avoid confusion and gather the milk product much cheaper by having it done for one concern and shipped to a common point. Another consideration is the reduction in handling and delivering expense here in (Scranton, Under the present arrangement we employ proportionately a smaller working force in our Linden street depot both in handling and office work. There are as many individuals doing business now as previously.

Mr. Stone was asked if any time had been set for having the delivery wagons uniformly painted and the city divided rrespective of new deliverymen to old ustomers. He said these matters had not yet been decided upon. Probably the most extensive indiridual dealer in the city who is not with the amalgamation was inter-viewed by the reporter. This gentle-man does a business of about $49,900 a year and declined an offer of an amount exceeding the value of his plant and business to enter the union. WHOLESALE PRICE TO BE RAISED.

He substantiated the statement of Mr. Stone, but stated in addition that the wholesale dispensers of the lucteal fluid, hotels, restaurants, etc., would have to pay more than formerly. Grocerymen who had bought from the aruer dealers at 44 cents per quart tould also be shut out. The gentleman said further that the arger dealers had been undersold by their own customers who bought at 42 cents solely to sell at 5 cents and draw trade for butter, eggs and the like, without caring to make a profit on the

DUGGAN CHANGED THE LOCK.

He Has Clinched His Hold on Dunmore'. Borough Building.

Borgess T. J. Duggan still holds pos session of Dunmore's town hall and yesterday he clinched his hold on it by placing a spring lock on the jail door which also locks the council chamber being the only means of ingress to the building. The keys to the new lock he has retained himself, practically taking complete possession personally of the building, as no one, not even the town

This struggle, it is feared, will result in the neglect of borough business, and if it does it is probable the citizens will petition the court to interfere and compel a satfisment.

All last year the council did not do any business on account of the attorney dend-lock, and it is feared that the ensning year will witness a repetition of this neglect. It is said that several of the councilmen will rasign rather than be embroiled in such trouble as confronted them last year.

Mr. Savage is more sanguine of vicory than ever and informed his friends y aterday that he was more than ever confident of his ability to live up to the law. His widespread popularity is evidenced by the fact that his own political enemies clamor for his retention.

IN BUILDING CIRCLES. The interior of the Penn Avenue syna-gogue is being remodeled. Progress on the new Delaware and Hudson station goes steadily forward, but it will be several months before it will be ompleted and ready for use.

Night and day workmen are hurrying to and fro in the Frothingham theater straining every nerve to have the house ready for the opening next Monday night. Stone is being hauled to the ground for the foundation of W. H. Whyte's family hotel at Wyoming avenue and Vine street. The greater part of the excavating has already been accomplished. Extensive changes are being made on the old post office building at Peau avenue and Spruce street. A large bay window is being added to the Spruce street side of the first story, and many other changes being made to fit the building for mercantile purposes. The Forest House is now but a memory. It has been razed to the ground and work-men are excavating for the foundation of the large hotel, "The Jermyn," which will take its place. The frame building that stood in the rear of the Forest House, at Spruce street and Oakford court, is now being torn down. The extension on the 10-foot reservation that is being built on the Davidson build-ing at Washington avenue and Spruce is watched with probably greater interest than any other building enterprise in this city at present. Frequently during the day crowds congregate at the Columbus statue and watch the progress of opera-tions. The comments heard are not always complimentary to Mr. Davidson.

Many large tree stumps with huge, spreading routs are being removed from the excavation that is being made for the foundation of the new building Contractor Williams is erecting on the Rafter property at Washington avenue and Linden street. Many of these stumps are imbedded in the soft turf-like substance that is found ten feet below the surface and were probably felled when Scranton was the village of Harrison and court house square a

THE NATIONAL GAME.

President Alex Dunn, jr., of the Scranton Base Ball association, said esterday that the greater part of the fence enclosing the new grounds on Providence road has been erected, and today John Palmer, of Dunmore, will begin to lay out the diamond and grade the grounds. By the end of the week, Mr. Duan says, carpenters will be at work on the grand stand. It may not be altogether a thing of beauty this season, but it will be constructed with a view to the comfort of the patrons and in such a manner that it can be improved upon later. Scranton should have one of the finest diamonds in the league this season. In less than a mouth our team will be in the field.

The Philadelphia Press yesterday contained the following concerning Charles Gelbert, of this city, a student at the University of Pennsylvania: Charles Gelbert, best known in intercollegiate circles as Penn's plucky halfback, was placed in the box to pitch for the Varsity nine against the Professionals yesterday. Gelbert's shoulter has been sore, hurt in foot ball, and Arthur Irwin has allowed him to take no chances, making him play right field and forbidding him to throw up to date. While the least bit wild yesterday, a natural thing from lack of practice, he showed great speed, and that, too, with little or no swing. He knocked catcher Brown's hands apart and finally split one of them badly, patting an end to the game with the score 4 to 4 at the end of the fourth inning. Gelbert is the best pitcher who has yet put in an appearance.

John J. Murphy, of this city, will continue this season to be one of the mainstays of the Georgetown College Base Ball team. That organization will in a short time start on a northern tour, and is scheduled to play with Princeton, Yale and other crack college
